USPA NEWS - Masjid Al-Aqsa: More Than a Mosque

Masjid Al-Aqsa, located in Jerusalem, is not just a place of worship—it is a symbol of faith, history, and identity for millions around the world.

It is the third holiest site in Islam, after Makkah and Madinah, and holds a special place in the hearts of Muslims globally.

Al-Aqsa was also the first Qibla—the original direction of prayer—and is deeply connected to the miraculous journey of Isra and Mi'raj, making it spiritually unique.

But Al-Aqsa is not only about history.

It is alive today.
With every prayer.
With every believer who walks its courtyards.
With every heart that remains connected to it.

For Palestinians, it represents heritage, dignity, and resilience.
For Muslims worldwide, it represents unity, faith, and responsibility.

This is not just about a structure.
It is about preserving something sacred.

Masjid Al-Aqsa must be respected, protected, and kept open—for worship, for peace, and for future generations.

Because some places are not just landmarks…
They are part of who we are.
